

Stakeholder Engagement and Evidence

Prepared by: Lucky

1. Stakeholder Identified

Name: Kgomotso Ranchu

Business: Agricast Advisory Services (farm fencing and agricultural advisory services)

Contact number: +27 64 363 3161

2. How Engagement Was Arranged

As the group member responsible for stakeholder engagement, I was responsible for sourcing and securing the project's stakeholder. I identified Mr. Kgomotso Ranchu of Agricast Advisory Services as a suitable stakeholder for the project and made initial contact with him to introduce the project and request his participation.

I coordinated directly with Mr. Ranchu to arrange a date, time, and venue for him to meet with the rest of the project team. This included a voice call to confirm his availability and follow-up messages on the day to coordinate arrival, as shown in the evidence below.

3. The Engagement Session

On the day of the engagement, I personally met with the stakeholder and accompanied him to Central University of Technology (CUT), Main Campus, so that he could meet the rest of the project team in person. The meeting took place at the Student Support venue, where the full project team was present to engage with the stakeholder directly.

This face-to-face session allowed the team to ask the stakeholder questions about his business and its challenges first-hand, rather than relying on second-hand information, which strengthened the quality of the stakeholder and problem analysis conducted by the team.

4. Evidence of Engagement

The following evidence supports the engagement described above:

- A photograph of the stakeholder, Mr. Kgomotso Ranchu, taken during engagement.
- A WhatsApp conversation confirming coordination of the meeting and arrival on campus.
- A call log confirming a voice call with the stakeholder on 23 August 2026, lasting 3 minutes and 16 seconds, used to confirm arrangements.

5. Outcome of Engagement

The direct engagement with Mr. Ranchu gave the project team first-hand insight into a real business and its operational challenges. This engagement supported the accuracy of the group's Stakeholder and Problem Analysis and Requirements Analysis, ensuring that the proposed solution is grounded in a genuine business need rather than assumptions.
